Ancient Explorers Synopsis from Ancient Explorers by Omar Mora

Mark and Luis are best friends that grew up together listening to Grandpa's stories about his adventures and big hidden treasures. Stories that they forgot as they grew up and responsibilities took over. In their adulthood, Mark and Luis put together an antique store with items that Grandpa collects over the years. After few years the business when bankruptcy. The night that they finished packing the items from the store they went to a local bar to drink their frustration. It was in the bar that Mark and Luis met two beautiful ladies, Sandy and Jennifer. As they guys were trying to flirt with the ladies, Jennifer and Sandy got interested in Mark's compass; a compass that his Grandpa gave him before passed away when Mark was a kid. As the ladies revised the compass and the ancient symbols in it, they decided to see more of what Luis and Mark have in the store. They were very intrigue on what the compass symbols revealed. As the four of them look into the items of the store, Mark revealed that he still possess a treasure map that he and Luis discovered with Grandpa when they were kids; a treasure map that have the same ancient symbols as the compass have. Jennifer and Sandy explained to them that they believe that the map and the compass are real and it is from the fourteenth centuries. They also revealed to them that they are archaeologists, which they know what they are talking about. As they keep studying the map, the map revealed something imaginable; it revealed Paititi, The Lost City of Peru. A city that hidden many treasures and riches. The guys were impressed with the girls and with the findings. As they are discovering this, something happened that put their lives in danger. A danger that drives our adventures guys to follow what they were meant to do in life, to become what his Grandpa taught them when they were kids, to become Ancient Explorers. Is then when Luis, Mark, Jennifer and Sandy begging their journey into the unknown; a magical and adventure journey to discover the Lost City of Peru, a journey that will change their lives forever.
